400 PERSONS REPORTED
MISSING

New Hall, Cal., March 14.—With death and desolation on every hand, an army of searchers deployed at daybreak today through the ravaged Santa Clara river basin hunting for the bodies of more dead in the St. Francis dam catastrophe.

As dawn broke over the devastated 60 mile valley laid waste by the collapse of the huge storage dam, 287 bodies had been recovered and between 300 and 400 persons were still reported missing.

True realization of the extent of the tragedy at last was becoming apparent as weary searchers continued to struggle in from isolated parts of the basin bringing bodies of victims to be placed along side those in already overcrowded morgues.

As foothills towns woke to another day of sorrow, grief stricken friends and relatives began their hunt up and down the valley by foot, on horseback and in automobiles in the frantic hunt for missing persons.

There was a constant procession of frantic mothers and fathers through funeral parlors and temporary morgues to view the rows of bodies.

Occasionally there was an outcry as someone among the rows of dead was identified.

Many of the bodies were mutilated indicating that the swift current had hurled them against buildings or fences with terrific force as they were swept down the valley.

The Newhall pool room and dance hall was turned overnight into a morgue. Long pine boards were placed along the four walls and upon them lay the forty-six bodies brought into Newhall from the surrounding country.

More than 1,000 men were massing in the valley town today to begin the first systematic search of the territory for the hundreds still missing.

It is believed that a large number of those now listed as missing will report back home when the confusion in the valley subsides.

Doran Storey, a deputy sheriff who returned shortly after dawn from the area that was swept by the flood a little more than 24 hours ago expressed the belief many bodies are buried in the long trail of wreckage extending from the mountains to the sea.

"Those bodies already recovered have been in plain sight," Storey said.

"I saw bodies in places that we cannot reach until the water goes down and undoubtedly there are many others buried in the three or four feet of silt that cover almost the entire river basin."

Storey recounted scenes of horror. He said that bodies had been washed into isolated canyons along the valley, many of them clinging to trees and others buried beneath the wreckage of homes and debris.

The death list as compiled by the sheriff's office here early today follows:

Newhall, 46.
Ventura, 9.
Oxnard, 4.
Santa Paula, 36.
Fillmore, 47.
Moor Park, 40.
Amarillo, 9.
Piru, 61.
Saticoy, 5.
Bodies being brought into Newhall or found and waiting transportation, 30.

Many of the bodies probably never will be recovered, it was said, as the force of the flood may have carried them into the sea or buried them deep in the mud which was carried down the river basin by the terrific rush of water.

2 ENGLISH FLIERS,
ROYAL AIR FORCE,
DASHED TO DEATH

London, March 14.—(U.P.)—Flying Officer Horace Mumford Matthews and Lieut. David Cummins Scott, of the royal air force, were killed today when their Bristol fighter airplane crashed at 400 feet with a Vickers bombing plane near Manston airdrome. The Vickers was damaged but was landed safely.

Francis dam looked up like a grim tombstone marking off the spot where scores of persons lost their lives when an avalanche of water swept down upon them.

Starting from that grim reminder of tragedy lay a path of wreckage, desolation and death.

Instead of the fertile, irrigated valleys of the Santa Clara basin, lay crumbled towns, battered down houses and bodies. Railroad tracks just as they toy railroads often are just as they toy railroads often are twisted by children at play.

The once great orchards were wrecked. The trees were but sticks whirling along in the great current of the 12,000,000,000 gallons of water that was unloosed on the valley. An airdrome was flattened and planes mired. Houses were swept from their bases and either shattered or deposited great distances from their original foundations. Bodies could be seen. Some were in trees. Others lay half submerged on the ground.

As we flew over this new valley of death—where once there was a quiet pastoral scene of thriving ranches and busy little homes, we could easily follow the course of the great deluge of water.

Santa Paula, a city of 7,500, appeared to have suffered most. Water reached the second floor of the modern high school building there. More than 20 blocks of houses had been swept away. The debris was strewn over the roads and flooded countryside.

The flying field at El Rio had been destroyed. The hangar was flattened and from our position in the cockpit of the plane, we could see a battered airplane nosed into the ground. Grotesquely a signboard, advertising a favorite brand of cigars, stood—where houses, bridges and buildings had been washed away.

Six large moving vans stood in the road near Saugus. The roads were filled with persons apparently searching for bodies of their loved ones. Others attempted to retrieve household belongings. Dead stock floated in the muddy water or was strewn about the ground.

Where the water had subsided, there was a yellowy waste covering the once fertile earth.

The great dam, which had been the pride of the valley, was battered like some toy. Great chunks were thrown yards away from the base. Some of the great bits of concrete and steel—which had comprised one of America's great engineering feats—had been floated along with the overflow of water. They were believed to have battered down some of the houses of the valley.

And today only the jagged remnant of the dam stands, a reminder of the tragedy.—(End Copyright.)

Los Angeles, March 14.—Faulty construction of the St. Francis dam which collapsed yesterday, bringing death and destruction to the Santa Clara river valley, was charged today by Coroner Frank A. Nance.

"It is admitted that the dam was not anchored to hard rock," said Nance, in announcing plans for his contemplated inquest of the tragedy next week. "One end was fastened to shale and the other to a conglomerate formation."

If the coroner's inquest results in findings of criminal negligence against any persons concerned with the construction or operation of the St. Francis dam, those persons will be prosecuted, Dist. Atty. Asa Keyes of Los Angeles county announced.

Engineers who built the giant concrete structure, members and employees of the water and power commission and survivors of the catastrophe will be called to testify at the inquest.

Coroner Nance's charge was on direct opposition to a statement made by Stanley Dunham, construction engineer during the building of the dam.

"William Mulholland, Los Angeles city engineer, chose the site and the dam rested on solid bedrock," Dunham told the United Press at his home in Independence, Cal. "Many engineers visited the dam

Washington, March 14.—(U.P.)—Prohibition administrators throughout the country were instructed today to start test cases within 30 days against sale of wort—a gummy malt substance used for the manufacture of beer and other intoxicating drinks.

Officials said that if they win the cases they will prohibit the manufacture and sale of wort. Legal authorities of the dry organization have been unable to find a provision in the Volstead act, prohibition law or old internal revenue law which directly bans trade in wort or other similar malt preparations.

But James J. Britt, legal adviser of the prohibition bureau, said it was unlawful to make or sell any substance intended for use in preparing intoxicants. He hopes the courts will consider wort and similar malt preparations within this category.

FEDERAL JURY IN COCHRAN CASE IS NOW DELIBERATING

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—A federal jury today was deliberating the fate of C. A. Cochran, Andrew E. Nelson, and 14 other defendants, charged with using the mails to defraud investors of $2,000,000.

The jury was given the case last night after a trial lasting 50 days. In his charge to the jury, Judge John B. Sanborn ordered a verdict of not guilty for Magnus Martinson, former publisher of the Posten Press, Minneapolis Swedish newspaper. Martinson was charged with acting as a "go-between" in the sale of the Press to Cochran.

Lafayette French, Jr., United States district attorney, required three hours to make his closing arguments to the jury. He reviewed the testimony in detail.

It was believed probable by court officers that the jury would report the case sometime during the day.

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Two St. Paul city detectives today are encamped in federal court waiting return of the Cochran jury to arrest at least three defendants in the case on state charges.

C. A. Cochran, 38-year-old promoter, is one of those for whom warrants are held, and the other two are said by police to be salesmen.

Police are momentarily expecting telegraphic warrants for two other defendants, it was said.

The warrants were placed in the hands of the police department for service by G. B. Brubaker, examiner of the state securities commission, but were sworn out in Wright county, charging, it is understood, sale of unregistered bonds.

In the meantime, the jury which for more than eight weeks has been hearing the trial of Cochran and his 16 co-defendants was still out. It had been out 19 hours at 1 o'clock. Before turning in its verdict, the jury must take up the case of each defendant, and of each count against the individual.

Because the men wanted on the state warrants are in care of the federal court, the police detectives made no effort to place them under arrest, though they sat about the federal courtroom conversing with the defendants they seek to arrest.

POWER DAM BURSTS

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., March 14.—(U.P.)—Villages and towns in southwestern Wisconsin were virtually isolated today by water from a power dam at LaFarge, which burst because of a heavy ice jam.

Train service throughout the affected area was disrupted. Ferry service across swollen rivers enabled some communities to retain contact with the outside world.

The Wisconsin and Mississippi rivers rose rapidly here. Among the communities affected by the flood were Richmond Center, Soldiers' Grove, Gays Mills, Wauzeka and Benton.

SAYS RITCHIE
SHOULD BE HEAD
OF THE NATIONMARYLAND GOVERNOR SHOULD BE NOMINATED AT HOUS-
TON AND ELECTEDLEE GENTLE CONTROLS 14 VOTES
IN HIS FAMILY, IS "AGIN"
AL SMITHBy EDWARD W. LEWIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Atlanta, Ga., March 13.—What does a father of 29 children think about the coming national election?

That Governor Ritchie of Maryland ought to be nominated at Houston and elected president.

What does he think of companionate marriage?

He never heard of it!

In an interview with the United Press today, Dixie's most famous family man, Lee Gentle (who has so many children he can't remember their names off hand) said he was "agin" Al Smith and "agin" all republicans.

"I control 14 votes of the Gentle family," he said. "None of them will vote dry and none will vote for Smith if he is nominated."

The 66-year-old Atlantian leaned on the counter of his combination billiard hall and lunch room and commented on how fine it was to have children. He talked politics and stressed the need of better beer.

"I don't know what companionate marriage is, but I know that if I had to live life over again I'd want just as many children. Every day I go home and two or three jump on my knee. Children make a home."

That's the trouble with modern life. If married folks would have more children, they'd have more happiness, fewer divorces and there'd be less crime.

"Married people nowadays don't know what to do with their time. That's the reason they do so many things they shouldn't," Gentle commented.

The youngest Gentle child is a girl, aged 13 months. Several, six altogether, are in the public schools now.

"They keep me young. I don't look 66, do I?" He didn't.

"I am a prohibitionist," he said, turning to politics. "I am a believer in prohibition when it prohibits, because I have so many children. But the eighteenth amendment does not prohibit. It can't be enforced and ought to be repealed."

"Governor Ritchie is a man I admire. I met him once. He is a conservative and fine man. I'd like to vote for him but I won't vote for Smith because of his religion."

"As for Senator Reed of Missouri, he's all right, but a lot of us folks down this way won't forgive him for opposing Wilson."

"As I said before, I control 14 votes. I think it's 14—there may be 17 of the children now voting. A few may be stubborn but I guess they will all vote the way I say. They won't vote republican and they won't vote for a dry or Al Smith."

A year ago Christmas, Gentle went to Washington and was introduced to President Coolidge as one of the nation's greatest fathers.

"He was a fine plain kind of man but a republican," Gentle said regretfully.

"About next March I'm going up again to see the next president. If he's a democrat Mrs. Gentle is going along too."

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Spring's pending arrival was given official recognition today by C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, in an appeal to motor car owners to keep off unpaved highways during the thawing season.

Deane Rundlett of Walton League Denies Dictating Letter

Minneapolis, March 14.—(U.P.)—Deane Rundlett, president, Isaak Walton League, Minnesota chapter, today denied dictating the portion of a letter to Walter E. Quigley, which E. W. Backus made public yesterday, and which mentions E. E. Smith and F. H. Carpenter, Minneapolis, as financing conservation propaganda of the league against Backus and for the international boundary water right plans.

Rundlett, a war veteran now in Ashbury hospital here with an eye affliction, is unable to see. He said he did not dictate the portion of the letter to Quigley referring to Smith and Carpenter. Smith is a leading republican and Carpenter a rival lumberman of Backus.

"This is either forgery," he says, "or the result of a contemptible deception played on a man who could not see."

Quigley said Rundlett is not blind, is a lawyer, goes out of the hospital frequently, holds court as a justice, expects to be discharged from the hospital about April 1 and signed the letter in the form it was made public by Backus.

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Mayor L. C. Hodgson and John F. Scott will be opponents for mayor of St. Paul at the May 1 election, tabulation of returns revealed today. They were nominated at the primary election Tuesday. An amendment to relieve the street railway company of street maintenance costs was defeated.

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Mayor L. C. Hodgson and John F. Scott will be opponents for mayor of St. Paul at the May 1 election.

They were nominated at the primary election Tuesday. The mayor received 15,143 votes, leading the field of five candidates.

Scott was second in the race with 14,438 votes.

Dr. C. A. Ingerson, Ramsey county coroner, was third in the mayoralty nomination race, receiving 13,737 votes.

Frank E. McAllister, labor candidate, received 11,136 and George L. Siegel had 4,786.

The showing by McAllister was the poorest labor has put forth in a St. Paul election, political dopesters said today. It is the first time since 1920, when labor first entered mayoralty politics, that it has failed to nominate its candidate.

Los Angeles, March 14.—(U.P.)—Plans to take William Edward Hickman, convicted double slayer, to San Quentin to await hanging in April have been postponed. All available county officers today were on duty bringing order in the devastated Santa Clara river valley section.

Hunt, who was convicted with Hickman of the murder of Ivy Toms, was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin yesterday.

PLANE FOR 28½
HOURS

St. Johns, N. F., March 14.—(U.P.)—Hope was abandoned by marine and other authorities at noon (EST) today that Captain Walter Hinchliffe and the Honorable Elsie Mackay had succeeded or could succeed in their attempt to fly the Atlantic from England.

St. Johns, N. F., March 14.—The telegraph operator at Brigus transmitted a message saying that a man there reported having heard an airplane engine between 6 and 7 A. M. today. There is no confirmation of the report. The weather was clear and as a plane could have been seen, the report is discredited.

(By United Press)

Thirty-three and a quarter hours out from Cranwell airdrome, England, on an attempt to fly westward to North America, the Stinson monoplane Endeavor was many hours overdue at 1 P. M. today.

The plane should have crossed the Newfoundland coast not later than 8 or 8:30 A. M. There has been no authentic report of it for 28½ hours, since it passed westward over the southwestern tip of Ireland at 8:30 A. M. (EST) yesterday.

If the plane reached Newfoundland, and headed down the coast, it would not be due in New York or Philadelphia, both mentioned as possible objectives, before late this afternoon.

Preparations were made at Mitchell field, Long Island, and at the Philadelphia airport, to take care of it.

Weather along most of the route, at sea and on land, is reported to be good—almost a novelty at this time of year.

On one side there is the fact that experts regard an attempt to fly westward across the Atlantic under best conditions as an almost hopeless gamble. On the other hand is the fact that Hinchliffe is one of the most experienced pilots, a man of determination and intrepidity, and that he believed in himself and his plane.

The flight of Captain Hinchliffe's plane was perhaps the most desperate ever attempted by an aviator in peace time. Experts regarded it as next to impossible under present conditions.

The winds are almost constantly adverse, where on an eastward flight an airplane is driven by favorable winds.

The White Bird of the Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coll, was the first that set out to make it. It never was heard of after it left the Irish coast. Nor was the St. Raphael, in which two British men and a British woman—Princess Anne of Lowenstein-Wertheim, daughter of the late Earl of Mexborough—set out from the west of England.

Miss Mackay is the second woman to try the flight.

One British plane, a French one, and two German machines turned back in the face of hopeless conditions after starting attempts to make the westward flight. One of the German planes was making a net speed of only three miles an hour, bucking a howling gale, when it turned back from the gray sea to the Irish coast.

London, March 14.—A gilded-winged American made monoplane was believed somewhere in the north Atlantic skies today carrying its two passengers—one of whom may be the Hon. Elsie Mackay—on the season's first trans-Atlantic flight attempt.

Overnight it developed that when Walter Hinchliffe took off from Cranwell airdrome so mysteriously yesterday morning, he may have had the pretty and titled English girl with him.

A close relative of Lord Incheape early today was quoted in the Daily Mail as saying that Miss Mackay was in the plane.

5 KILLED AS FOG BLINDED DRIVER; DASHES INTO CREEK

FEDERAL JURY IN COCHRAN CASE IS NOW DELIBERATING

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—A federal jury today was deliberating the fate of C. A. Cochran, Andrew E. Nelson, and 14 other defendants, charged with using the mails to defraud investors of $2,000,000.

The jury was given the case last night after a trial lasting 50 days. In his charge to the jury, Judge John B. Sanborn ordered a verdict of not guilty for Magnus Martinson, former publisher of the Posten Press, Minneapolis Swedish newspaper. Martinson was charged with acting as a "go-between" in the sale of the Press to Cochran.

Lafayette French, Jr., United States district attorney, required three hours to make his closing arguments to the jury. He reviewed the testimony in detail.

It was believed probable by court officers that the jury would report the case sometime during the day.

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Two St. Paul city detectives today are en-camped in federal court waiting return of the Cochran jury to arrest at least three defendants in the case on state charges.

C. A. Cochran, 38-year-old promoter, is one of those for whom warrants are held, and the other two are said by police to be salesmen.

Police are momentarily expecting telegraphic warrants for two other defendants, it was said.

The warrants were placed in the hands of the police department for service by G. B. Brubaker, examiner of the state securities commission, but were sworn out in Wright county, charging, it is understood, sale of unregistered bonds.

In the meantime, the jury which for more than eight weeks has been hearing the trial of Cochran and his 16 co-defendants was still out. It had been out 19 hours at 1 o'clock. Before turning in its verdict, the jury must take up the case of each defendant, and of each count against the individual.

Because the men wanted on the state warrants are in care of the federal court, the police detectives made no effort to place them under arrest, though they sat about the federal courtroom conversing with the defendants they seek to arrest.

SANTA FE TRAIN DERAILED; 3 KILLED, SEVERAL INJURED

Los Angeles, March 14.—(U.P.)—Three persons were killed and several injured when the Santa Fe passenger train, the Scout, eastbound, was derailed at Yampai, Ariz., at 11:10 p. m. last night, according to advices received by the Santa Fe office here today.

POWER DAM BURSTS IN S. W. WISCONSIN

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., March 14.—(U.P.)—Villages and towns in southwestern Wisconsin were virtually isolated today by water from a power dam at LaFarge, which burst because of a heavy ice jam.

Train service throughout the affected area was disrupted. Ferry service across swollen rivers enabled some communities to retain contact with the outside world.

The Wisconsin and Mississippi rivers rose rapidly here. Among the communities affected by the flood were Richmond Center, Soldiers' Grove, Gays Mills, Wauzeka and Benton.

SAYS RITCHIE SHOULD BE HEAD OF THE NATION

MARYLAND GOVERNOR SHOULD BE NOMINATED AT HOUSTON AND ELECTED

LEE GENTLE CONTROLS 14 VOTES IN HIS FAMILY, IS "AGIN" AL SMITH

By EDWARD W. LEWIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Atlanta, Ga., March 13.—What does a father of 29 children think about the coming national election?

That Governor Ritchie of Maryland ought to be nominated at Houston and elected president.

What does he think of companionate marriage?

He never heard of it!

In an interview with the United Press today, Dixie's most famous family man, Lee Gentle (who has so many children he can't remember their names off hand) said he was "agin" Al Smith and "agin" all republicans.

"I control 14 votes of the Gentle family," he said. "None of them will vote dry and none will vote for Smith if he is nominated."

The 66-year-old Atlantan leaned on the counter of his combination billiard hall and lunch room and commented on how fine it was to have children. He talked politics and stressed the need of better beer.

"I don't know what companionate marriage is, but I know that if I had to live life over again I'd want just as many children. Every day I go home and two or three jump on my knee. Children make a home. That's the trouble with modern life. If married folks would have more children, they'd have more happiness, fewer divorces and there'd be less crime."

"Married people nowadays don't know what to do with their time. That's the reason they do so many things they shouldn't," Gentle commented.

The youngest Gentle child is a girl, aged 13 months. Several, six altogether, are in the public schools now.

"They keep me young. I don't look 66, do I?" He didn't.

"I am a prohibitionist," he said, turning to politics. "I am a believer in prohibition when it prohibits, because I have so many children. But the eighteenth amendment does not prohibit. It can't be enforced and ought to be repealed."

"Governor Ritchie is a man I admire. I met him once. He is a conservative and fine man. I'd like to vote for him but I won't vote for Smith because of his religion."

"As for Senator Reed of Missouri, he's all right, but a lot of us folks down this way won't forgive him for opposing Wilson."

"As I said before, I control 14 votes. I think it's 14—there may be 17 of the children now voting. A few may be stubborn but I guess they will all vote the way I say. They won't vote republican and they won't vote for a dry or Al Smith."

A year ago Christmas, Gentle went to Washington and was introduced to President Coolidge as one of the nation's greatest fathers. "He was a fine plain kind of man but a republican," Gentle said regretfully.

"About next March I'm going up again to see the next president. If he's a democrat Mrs. Gentle is going along too."

SPRING'S PENDING ARRIVAL NOTED BY C. M. BABCOCK

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Spring's pending arrival was given official recognition today by C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, in an appeal to motor car owners to keep off unpaved highways during the thawing season.

"Road conditions generally are better than a year ago at this time," the bulletin said.

Deane Rundlett of Walton League Denies Dictating Letter

Minneapolis, March 14.—(U.P.)—Deane Rundlett, president, Izak Walton League, Minnesota chapter, today denied dictating the portion of a letter to Walter E. Quigley, which E. W. Backus made public yesterday, and which mentions E. E. Smith and F. H. Carpenter, Minneapolis, as financing conservation propaganda of the league against Backus and for the international boundary water right plans.

Rundlett, a war veteran now in Asbury hospital here with an eye affliction, is unable to see. He said he did not dictate the portion of the letter to Quigley referring to Smith and Carpenter. Smith is a leading republican and Carpenter a rival lumberman of Backus.

"This is either forgery," he says, "or the result of a contemptible deception played on a man who could not see."

Quigley said Rundlett is not blind, is a lawyer, goes out of the hospital frequently, holds court as a justice, expects to be discharged from the hospital about April 1 and signed the letter in the form it was made public by Backus.

HODGSON TO OPPOSE SCOTT IN MAYORALTY CONTEST IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Mayor L. C. Hodgson and John F. Scott will be opponents for mayor of St. Paul at the May 1 election, tabulation of returns revealed today. They were nominated at the primary election Tuesday. An amendment to relieve the street railway company of street maintenance costs was defeated.

St. Paul, March 14.—(U.P.)—Mayor L. C. Hodgson and John F. Scott will be opponents for mayor of St. Paul at the May 1 election.

They were nominated at the primary election Tuesday. The mayor received 15,143 votes, leading the field of five candidates.

Scott was second in the race with 14,438 votes.

Dr. C. A. Ingerson, Ramsey county coroner, was third in the mayoralty nomination race, receiving 13,737 votes.

Frank E. McAllister, labor candidate, received 11,136 and George L. Siegel had 4,786.

The showing by McAllister was the poorest labor has put forth in a St. Paul election, political dopesters said today. It is the first time since 1920, when labor first entered mayoralty politics, that it has failed to nominate its candidate.

DELAY TAKING HICKMAN TO SAN QUENTIN

Los Angeles, March 14.—(U.P.)—Plans to take William Edward Hickman, convicted double slayer, to San Quentin to await hanging in April have been postponed. All available county officers today were on duty bringing order in the devastated Santa Clara river valley section.

County Jailor Frank Dewar, who was to have escorted Hickman and Welby Hunt to the penitentiary, went into the flood region to help in the relief work.

Hunt, who was convicted with Hickman of the murder of Ivy Toms, was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin yesterday.

HINCHLIFFE IS NOW LONG OVERDUE HERE

SHOULD HAVE CROSSED NEWFOUNDLAND AT 8 OR 8:30 THIS MORNING

NO AUTHENTIC REPORTS OF THE PLANE FOR 28½ HOURS

St. Johns, N. F., March 14.—(U.P.)—Hope was abandoned by marine and other authorities at noon (EST) today that Captain Walter Hinchliffe and the Honorable Elsie Mackay had succeeded or could succeed in their attempt to fly the Atlantic from England.

St. Johns, N. F., March 14.—The telegraph operator at Brigus transmitted a message saying that a man there reported having heard an airplane engine between 6 and 7 A. M. today. There is no confirmation of the report. The weather was clear and as a plane could have been seen, the report is discredited.

(By United Press)

Thirty-three and a quarter hours out from Cranwell airdrome, England, on an attempt to fly westward to North America, the Stinson monoplane Endeavor was many hours overdue at 1 P. M. today.

The plane should have crossed the Newfoundland coast not later than 8 or 8:30 A. M. There has been no authentic report of it for 28½ hours, since it passed westward over the southwestern tip of Ireland at 8:30 A. M., (EST) yesterday.

If the plane reached Newfoundland, and headed down the coast, it would not be due in New York or Philadelphia, both mentioned as possible objectives, before late this afternoon.

Preparations were made at Mitchell field, Long Island, and at the Philadelphia airport, to take care of it.

Weather along most of the route, at sea and on land, is reported to be good—almost a novelty at this time of year.

On one side there is the fact that experts regard an attempt to fly westward across the Atlantic under best conditions as an almost hopeless gamble. On the other hand is the fact that Hinchliffe is one of the most experienced pilots, a man of determination and intrepidity, and that he believed in himself and his plane.

The flight of Captain Hinchliffe's plane was perhaps the most desperate ever attempted by an aviator in peace time. Experts regarded it as next to impossible under present conditions.

The winds are almost constantly adverse, where on an eastward flight an airplane is driven by favorable winds.

The White Bird of the Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coli, was the first that set out to make it. It never was heard of after it left the Irish coast. Nor was the St. Raphael, in which two British men and a British woman—Princess Anne of Lowenstein-Wertheim, daughter of the late Earl of Mexborough—set out from the west of England.

Miss Mackay is the second woman to try the flight.

One British plane, a French one, and two German machines turned back in the face of hopeless conditions after starting attempts to make the westward flight. One of the German planes was making a net speed of only three miles an hour, bucking a howling gale, when it turned back from the gray sea to the Irish coast.

By CLIFFORD DAY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
London, March 14.—A gilded-winged American made monoplane was believed somewhere in the north Atlantic skies today carrying its two passengers—one of whom may be the Hon. Elsie Mackay—on the season's first trans-Atlantic flight attempt.

Overnight it developed that when Walter Hinchliffe took off from Cranwell airdrome so mysteriously yesterday morning, he may have had the pretty and titled English girl with him.

A close relative of Lord Inchcape early today was quoted in the Daily Mail as saying that Miss Mackay was in the plane.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR INTREPID ENGLISH AVIATOR

Other sources helped to confirm that the daughter of Lord Inchcape, one of Britain's most powerful ship owners, was making the flight attempt.

Attendants at the George Hotel, Grantham, said Miss Mackay spent Monday night there and left early Tuesday—just before the flight started—in the general direction of Cranwell.

The Daily Mail quoted Lord Inchcape's relative as saying:

"When I first heard Hinchliffe had departed, my suspicions were aroused that Miss Mackay was accompanying him. Inquiries revealed my suspicions were correct."

The Daily Express printed a photograph of Miss Mackay, standing beside the "Endeavor." They said the picture was taken just before the surprise take-off. Miss Mackay was dressed in flying clothes.

Hinchliffe, when he left Cranwell, was supposed to have been accompanied by a "Mr. Sinclair." If Miss Mackay is in the plane it is assumed she used this name to hide her identity.

The plane is enroute to New York via Newfoundland, the Daily Mail said.

The last official reports here were that an airplane, believed to be the Endeavor, passed the Mizenhead lighthouse on the extreme southwestern tip of Ireland. The plane was headed to sea.

The "Endeavor" is capable of a speed of about 90 miles an hour on a long flight and was said to have sufficient gasoline aboard for a 3,000 mile flight when it left Cranwell yesterday.

On that basis it should arrive over Newfoundland about 6 A. M., Halifax at 11:30 A. M. and New York about 5 P. M.

London, March 14.—Further mystery was added to the trans-Atlantic flight of Captain Walter Hinchliffe today with news that Captain Gordon Sinclair, mentioned as possible co-pilot, was missing as well as the Honorable Elsie Mackay.

New York, March 14.—An amateur radio operator, George Dawson of station 2 Y-2, reported last night he had picked up a message relayed from the French liner Roussillon from another vessel "four days at sea" saying a large airplane had been sighted heading due west. The message said the figure 11 could be distinguished as could part of the airplane's name. He believed it to be the airplane of Captain W. G. R. Hinchliffe.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, March 14.—It was reported without confirmation today that an unnamed man had seen an airplane pass westward three miles south of Harbor Grace airfield at 5 A. M. today.

The report was not credited. There have been similar false reports regarding other flyers. No identified person of many who are watching has seen the plane.

C. H. PAINE AS A CHEF

C. H. PAINE of our city has many achievements to his credit, but one side of his work is never neglected by those who have had the chance to fish and hunt with him.

As a chef of a hunting camp Mr. Paine reigns supreme. Whether it is a camp for a week or longer, he no sooner sets foot in the cabin than he proceeds to make it pleasant and comfortable and to arrange all sorts of conveniences for the kitchen end.

We remember hearing a member of such a party telling how he accompanied "C. H." on his rounds about town as he bought the material for one of his celebrated beef stews. "C. H." knows meats. The brother hunter wondered, however, to see Mr. Paine select a lot of flank cuts and had his doubts about that cheap meat working up into any toothsome delicacy.

Arrived at the camp, Mr. Paine first set his kitchen "to rights", then cut up the meat and the vegetables and started it to boiling on a slow fire. Late at night the hunters returned to camp and it was stimulating to their nerves to smell the succulent supper.

Cooked on that slow fire for hours, that beef stew, said the hunters, was the finest meal they had ever tasted. The flank meat dissolved in your mouth. The cubes of potatoes, of carrots, of cabbage and other vegetables held their own. They were cooked to a turn, but still retained shape and had not dissolved.

Mr. Paine served the supper and each man's plate got the required portion of meat and the portion of vegetables. Although a lot of stew had been cooked, when the meal was over, there wasn't enough left to feed a canary bird.

Mr. Paine's ideas on slow cooking of the cheaper cuts of meat are substantiated by the best chefs of France. Of course, the housewives at home here cannot devote eight hours to watching a kettle of stew simmering on a range, but out in a hunting camp a chef can put his whole genius and experience to the task of serving palatable meals.

STATE'S IRON ORE PRODUCTION FORECAST

MINNESOTA'S iron ore production is this year expected to be between 10 and 15 per cent greater than in 1927.

Advance inquiries from big users of pig iron and prospects for a busy building season indicate such an increase, according to Frank Wildes, state superintendent of mines.

Mining men generally look for an iron ore output in Minnesota of about the same tonnage as in 1926 which was about 10 per cent greater than in 1927. Minnesota iron ore shipments in 1927 totaled 35,558,000 tons, valued at $90,289,000, as compared with 40,961,000 tons, valued at $103,715,000 in 1926.

These figures do not include about 500,000 tons of manganese ore which is valued slightly higher than the common run of ore. The manganese ores contain a higher percentage of manganese and are used for mixing with lower grade ores for certain kinds of steel.

Mining operations, according to Mr. Wildes, will not open up on the Minnesota ranges until navigation opens on the great lakes about May 1.

THE HIGH SCHOOL PLAY

THAT high school play at the Park theatre last night was presented with all the finish and aplomb of professional actors. As the first scene flashed on the stage and the seniors spoke their first lines, their natural attitude and conversation produced that comfortable feeling which permits a theatregoer to subconsciously know that here is a show that is "going over big" and whose home town talent is not going to flunk or worry over their cues.

Miss Mary Tornstrom, coach for many high school plays, deserves much credit for her success in turning out such wonderful plays. Each student spoke clearly and distinctly. Stage settings were appropriate, costumes elegant.

Taking into consideration high school play, declamations, athletics, orchestra, singing and everything else that adds to the varied activities of Brainerd high school, it has been a wonderful year and that Brainerdian year book should be filled to the brim with good stuff.

DEFENDS MODERN YOUTH

MUCH criticism of modern youth by parents is in self defense. Dr. John C. Acheson, president of Macalester college, said in addressing Loyal Knights of the Round Table at St. Paul recently. His principal theme was the blindness of parents in regard to present day youth.

"It is unfair," he said, "to denounce the rising generation in wholesale fashion. It is a generation of truth seekers. The youth of today is infinitely better in many respects than its predecessors. Can we whom the problem of modern youth confronts answer why we are spending 22 per cent of our resources for luxuries and less than 3 per cent for education?" he asked.

Dr. Acheson declared the much-maligned Nick Carter stories were ranked high literature with many of the magazines in the hands of youth today.

He declared that nothing is gained by quarreling with youth as we find it that the adolescent must be studied and trained.

TALK IS NOT CHEAP

THE old adage of "talk is cheap" receives many setbacks these days.

If you think talk is cheap, hire a prominent lawyer some time when you are in difficulties, and see what he will charge you to plead your case in court.

Talk over long distance telephone and then examine the bill. Vote for some politician. You will find that talk is the stepping stone which advanced him to power.

Although Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, has refused to confirm or deny it, it is reported that he is getting $350 a week for his morning health hour radio talks. Commanding $70 an hour, he is making more money in such talks than any other United States senator.

Talk is not cheap. It is expensive.

MRS. GIFFORD PINCHOT, wife of Pennsylvania's former governor, is a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the fifteenth district in her state. The main plank in her platform is "to vote dry, to live dry and to work for the dry cause."

FIRST SETTLEMENT IN CROW WING COUNTY

Crow Wing Founded in 1846

NOTE—It seems appropriate that the first of our County Historical Society series should be a reprint from the Leon E. Lum collection. The following article published 16 years ago in the Dispatch was secured by Mr. Lum from Rev. C. H. Beaulieu III, who has preached in Brainerd. In republishing, some irrelevant paragraphs have been omitted.

Reminiscences of early days are solicited by society. Write or see S. R. Adair, president or L. B. Kinder, historian.

Long before the N. P. railway decided to cross the Mississippi at a certain point and build a city to be called Brainerd, there was a little hamlet called Crow Wing at a point about ten miles below, known for many years by the English speaking people as Crow Wing, and before by the French traders and French mixed bloods as L'Aille du Corbeau, (Crow Wing).

And it may be added that the Chippewa will laugh in his sleeve when mention is made of the locality as Crow Wing, when from the time running backward into pre-history, the tribe knew it as "Neen-gi-tah-wit-gway-yang" or "The Place of Separation."

Fond du Lac boasts of a ruin, one log building abandoned with others when the American Fur Co. decided to make Crow Wing its headquarters for the Minnesota Chippewa Indian trade, and this by the way, was about the time Wisconsin organized as a state and left certain parts of its oil territory "No Man's Land."

Then Minnesota found itself by the nameless territorialists organizing as a government and calling the new territory, with the permission of the federal government, Minnesota.

(This was in 1848. But according to U. S. Senator Rice it was in 1846 that C. H. Beaulieu moved the Fur company headquarters from Fond du Lac to Crow Wing. The old post named in the next paragraph was probably established as early as 1837 by Mr. Beaulieu. In 1844 Alan Morrison and Donald McDonald were there trading with the Indians. L. B. K.)

The Crow Wing flows into the Mississippi river with two mouths.

The old American Fur Co.'s trading post was located a little distance below the lower mouth at the site afterward known by those of Crow Wing as "Morrison's."

The site was chosen wisely, for being below both mouths of the Crow Wing river and upon the eastern bank of the Mississippi river, the post could, like a spider waiting for a fly, catch the fur-bringing Indian coming down the rivers, and him from Gull Lake, Rabbit Lake, Mille Lac, from the north and east inland.

The government had decided to erect a military post in the upper regions of Minnesota and did so, building a fort on the western bank of the Mississippi. This fort was at first called Fort Gaines, afterwards Fort Ripley.

A military reservation was established on both sides of the Mississippi on the eastern side extending far enough north to include the site of the American Fur Co. trading post and beyond slightly to a point where unceded Chippewa lands began.

Mr. Beaulieu decided to locate off the military reservation so as to be independent of military regulations. It is necessary to state that shortly after his arrival at Crow Wing, the American Fur Co. disposed of its trade to the Pierre Chouteau Co. of St. Louis, Mo., a firm then doing business throughout the regions vaguely known as the northwest, and thus including the Missouri as well as the Mississippi regions.

The place selected by Mr. Beaulieu was on the eastern bank of the Mississippi opposite the upper mouth of the Crow Wing, and with a large force of loggers, sawyers and carpenters he erected his cluster of post buildings, one of which was a large two-story log building clap-boarded outside and celled within and designed for his residence.

After the Chouteaus assumed charge, all merchandise came direct from New York and England to St. Paul, and Mr. Beaulieu obtained his stock from St. Paul. All had to be transported from St. Paul by team. real estate in the vicinity of Belle Prairie and colonized a large number of Canadian French people there and from this colony he obtained his teams and teamsters. In the very early days there the French colony was more an adjunct of the Chouteau Fur Co. than agriculturists. Mr. Beaulieu himself became something of a farmer for he started 160 acres under cultivation at Belle Prairie raising only oats which he readily contracted to the authorities at Ft. Ripley.

He also leased 80 acres upon the military reservation near what then began to be known as Crow Wing Lake simply from association with the Crow Wing villagers who made this spot their rendezvous for social sports and a resort for fishing excursions. This little lake is midway between Crow Wing and Ft. Ripley. To write about Crow Wing and leave out mention of the "Lake" would be like putting on the play of Hamlet without Ophelia for Crow Wing and the "Lake" were as one.

The "Lake" too was a common possession of both Crow Wing and Fort Ripley; there the soldiers of the Fort would fish and partake surreptitiously of the whiskey obtained of Louis Meyrand then living near Big Bend just off the military reservation, posing as a tailor, but really living through gains as a "blind-pigger." At the lake, too, would gather the Crow Wingites to fish and drink the whiskey the blind pigger Donald Mc. Donald or "Old Mc" served to the pioneer thirsty ones.

What Capital Letters Mean

You can readily tell the character of ambition by the capital letters found in the writing. If these are high, you may decide that the writer has soaring ambitions. He will attain these ambitions if his writing is simple and many of the letters are printed. If there are a lot of flourishes and fancy scorings you will know that you have to deal with a romancer. Great indication of loops indicates strong pride and some love of admiration. When the first part of a capital is wrapped around the main stroke, the writer is generally found to be wrapped up in himself.

Low capitals indicate a lack of self-esteem. Ornate capitals show a love of display and these writers believe that externals count. They see little of the real character underneath the surface. Printed capitals are made by men and women who respect form and who are precise and exact. Surgeons and architects often make these. This writer is unassuming.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simplyampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

C. H. PAINE AS A CHEF

C. H. PAINE of our city has many achievements to his credit, but one side of his work is never neglected by those who have had the chance to fish and hunt with him.

As a chef of a hunting camp Mr. Paine reigns supreme. Whether it is a camp for a week or longer, he no sooner sets foot in the cabin than he proceeds to make it pleasant and comfortable and to arrange all sorts of conveniences for the kitchen end.

We remember hearing a member of such a party telling how he accompanied "C. H." on his rounds about town as he bought the material for one of his celebrated beef stews. "C. H." knows meats. The brother hunter wondered, however, to see Mr. Paine select a lot of flank cuts and had his doubts about that cheap meat working up into any toothsome delicacy.

Arrived at the camp, Mr. Paine first set his kitchen "to rights", then cut up the meat and the vegetables and started it all to boiling on a slow fire. Late at night the hunters returned to camp and it was stimulating to their nerves to smell the succulent supper.

Cooked on that slow fire for hours, that beef stew, said the hunters, was the finest meal they had ever tasted. The flank meat dissolved in your mouth. The cubes of potatoes, of carrots, of cabbage and other vegetables held their own. They were cooked to a turn, but still retained shape and had not dissolved.

Mr. Paine served the supper and each man's plate got the required portion of meat and the portion of vegetables. Although a lot of stew had been cooked, when the meal was over, there wasn't enough left to feed a canary bird.

Mr. Paine's ideas on slow cooking of the cheaper cuts of meat are substantiated by the best chefs of France. Of course, the housewives at home here cannot devote eight hours to watching a kettle of stew simmering on a range, but out in a hunting camp a chef can put his whole genius and experience to the task of serving palatable meals.

STATE'S IRON ORE PRODUCTION FORECAST

MINNESOTA'S iron ore production is this year expected to be between 10 and 15 per cent greater than in 1927.

Advance inquiries from big users of pig iron and prospects for a busy building season indicate such an increase, according to Frank Wildes, state superintendent of mines.

Mining men generally look for an iron ore output in Minnesota of about the same tonnage as in 1926 which was about 10 per cent greater than in 1927. Minnesota iron ore shipments in 1927 totaled 35,558,000 tons, valued at $90,289,000, as compared with 40,961,000 tons, valued at $103,715,000 in 1926.

These figures do not include about 500,000 tons of manganese ore which is valued slightly higher than the common run of ore. The manganese ores contain a higher percentage of manganese and are used for mixing with lower grade ores for certain kinds of steel.

Mining operations, according to Mr. Wildes, will not open up on the Minnesota ranges until navigation opens on the great lakes about May 1.

"While trailing big game in Africa, I have never been without my Lucky Strike Cigarette. Once on the Abyssinian border my shipment of them from America missed us, and I was miserable until the natives followed our tracks across the Kaisout desert to Nairobi with my precious cargo of Luckies. Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair. Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

BALL LEAGUE FOR BOYS PROPOSED BY AMERICAN LEGION

EARLY SEASON SCHEDULE WILL DETERMINE WINNER TO REPRESENT CITY

EXPENSES OF CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM TO ENTER REGIONAL TO BE TAKEN CARE OF

A baseball league for boys to get away to an early start this spring to determine the best representative nine in the city to enter a district league to determine champions to be entered in a regional meet, the winners of the latter to enter a state meet, is the plan outlined in a suggestion made to the local post of the American Legion by the state organization.

The local post will consider the proposed league and if favorable reports are received from L. L. Peterson, legionnaire and secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will carry through with the proposition.

The league will be for boys up to and including seventeen years of age. Local boys' teams will organize and play off an early summer schedule, the winner to represent the city in a district league comprised of teams from surrounding towns.

The National League has set aside several thousand dollars to care for the expense of the championship teams who play for regional, state and national places in the fall. The American Legion of the nation has been sponsoring this for the last few years successfully and Brainerd has been invited to become a representative in this district.

At the Training Camps

(By United Press)

Clearwater, Fla.—The Brooklyn Robins prepared today for the first exhibition game of the season with the University of Florida nine here.

More important than the game to Manager Wilbert Robinson was the scheduled arrival of Ruben Bressler, the Robins' new outfielder, who is expected to inject some punch in the team.

Bressler bought his release from the Cincinnati Reds yesterday for $4,000 and in turn sold himself to the Robins for $5,000, making $1,000 for himself.

Fort Myers, Fla.—The Buffalo club, champions of the International league, came here to play the Philadelphia Athletics today.

Winter Haven, Fla.—All members of the Phillies today were signed to contracts. John Schulte, catcher obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals in a winter trade, came into the fold yesterday. The only absentee from camp is Frank Ulrich, pitcher, who is ill with pneumonia.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Whether Waite Hoyt is to pitch for the Yankees this season or tend his father-in-law's undertaking establishment in Brooklyn depended on Hoyt today. Col. Jacob Ruppert said he would make no more offers to Hoyt.

The latest discovery in camp is Joe Marty, a fast ball pitcher who has won praise from Babe Ruth. Marty is the only Basque on a major league roster.

New Orleans, La.—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh ordered his players out early for practice today as a result of the Cleveland Indians' 19 to 6 defeat by the Toledo Mudhens yesterday at Biloxi, Miss.

Avon Park, Fla.—Rained out in their last two attempts to play exhibition games, the St. Louis Cardinals went to St. Petersburg to meet the Boston Braves today. Grover Cleveland Alexander, Fred Frankhouse and Bill Sherdel were to pitch for the Cards.

GENE TUNNEY THINKS HEENEY IS HIS NEXT OPPONENT

Miami Beach, Fla., March 14.—(U.P.)—Gene Tunney said today he considers Tom Heenev his next "logical opponent."

The heavyweight champion said "Heenev is in my opinion the winner of the tourney to pick a contender for the heavyweight crown." "Heenev has done everything Rickard has asked him to do," Tunney said. "He has defeated every opponent including Johnny Risko, Delaney and Sharkey." Tunney said he would continue his training here for another month and then leave for the north to complete training for his next championship fight.

McAULIFFE AIRS HIS VIEWS IN BOXING MATTERS

MORE CONTENDERS AT THE TOP THAN EVER BEFORE IN THE GAME

"NOT ONE OF THEM WORTH 30 CENTS," SAYS THE FORMER LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP

By JACK McAULIFFE
(Former Undefeated Lightweight Champion)

(Written for the United Press)
New York, March 14.—That middle western heavyweight contender of mine looks a lot more important today, after what he did to Jack Sharkey.

Just as I predicted, Johnny Risko took the big sailor into camp.

The victory for Risko doesn't solve the heavyweight situation, however, and it's now more of a Chinese puzzle than ever. In fact, I cannot recall a time in the history of the American prize ring when the heavyweight situation was so muddled.

They have more contenders up at the top now than ever before and there isn't one of them worth 30 cents, when compared to the old timers.

Before the Sharkey-Risko fight I not only predicted that Johnny would bring the big Bostonian down to his size, but I pointed out that the ring never had had a champion from the middle west. Well, that's where Risko hails from and he may be worth watching.

Jing Johnson Expects to Pitch for Athletics

That Russell (Jing) Johnson expects to be with the Philadelphia Athletics again this year, although he has not definitely announced that he has received a contract from the big league club, became evident when in a letter to the board of athletic control he intimated that he would not be available to coach the Lehigh baseball team next spring.

Johnson coached baseball at Lehigh for two seasons. He started on a one-year agreement and then was given a three-year contract. He served one year of the latter and it is believed that there will be no difficulties experienced if he seeks release. It is probable that the new football coach to be appointed will also be the coach of baseball.

Hurler Jack Ogden Goes to St. Louis in a Trade

Trade of Jack Ogden, veteran pitching star of the Baltimore Orioles, for two St. Louis Browns players and a cash consideration was announced by Jack Dunn, Oriole president and manager.

Catcher Dixon and Pitcher Bolen went to the Orioles from the American league club in exchange, but the amount of cash involved in the deal was not made known.

In eight years with the Orioles, Ogden has won 191 games and lost 89 besides earning a reputation as a fielding pitcher and valued aide to the manager in suggesting strategic moves during games when he was not on the mound.

Cause and Effect

"Buddy" Rogers Was a Trombone Player

From a trombone player to a leading man in something under two years is an unusual record, but that's what happened to Charles Rogers, who plays opposite Mary Pickford in the star's new comedy-romance, "My Best Girl." Young Rogers, the son of a newspaper publisher in a Kansas town, was leading his own orchestra over the Chautauqua circuit when he was selected as one of the successful candidates for Paramount's school for actors.

Collegiate Umpire Will Take Hank O'Day's Place

The Boston Transcript says that Albert "Dolly" Stark, freshman basketball coach at Dartmouth and a leading collegiate baseball official in the East for the last five years, will be named as National league umpire.

Stark, who has just turned twenty-seven, will be one of the youngest umpires in either major league and his appointment by President John A. Heydler of the National league will follow on the retirement of the veteran, Henry "Hank" O'Day, the paper says. O'Day is retiring from active duty to assist in an advisory and scouting capacity.

Stark last year umpired more than 50 college games, went South last spring with the Philadelphia Nationals and later appeared in the Eastern league. He is known as a "Beau Brummel" among umpires.

Freak Bet Is Recorded at Tijuana Race Track

A freak of race-horse betting was chalked up on the board at the Tijuana Jockey club track after the first race when the odds on Bay Lad, the winner, were posted.

Bay Lad paid $156 for $2 straight, $2.00 place and $2.20 show. The place and show prices are unusually small.

It was a baby race for two-year-old maidens and Bay Lad beat eight other horses, running three furlongs in :25 flat, within one-fifth second of the track record for the distance.

99-Year Grid Contract Is Signed in Florida

The longest term football contract in existence has been signed at Gainesville, Fla., the athletic committee of two national collegiate fraternities at the University of Florida—Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Theta—entering into agreement to play an annual football game for the next 99 years.

The unique contract, calling for contests through the year 2027 A. D., specified that the annual games be played the second Saturday following the close of the regular varsity football season at Gainesville.

McAULIFFE AIRS HIS VIEWS IN BOXING MATTERS

MORE CONTENDERS AT THE TOP THAN EVER BEFORE IN THE GAME

"NOT ONE OF THEM WORTH 30 CENTS," SAYS THE FORMER LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP

By JACK McAULIFFE
(Former Undeatable Lightweight Champion)

(Written for the United Press)
New York, March 14.—That middle western heavyweight contender of mine looks a lot more important today, after what he did to Jack Sharkey.

Just as I predicted, Johnny Risko took the big sailor into camp. The victory for Risko doesn't solve the heavyweight situation, however, and it's now more of a Chinese puzzle than ever. In fact, I cannot recall a time in the history of the American prize ring when the heavyweight situation was so muddled.

They have more contenders up at the top now than ever before and there isn't one of them worth 30 cents, when compared to the old timers.

Before the Sharkey-Risko fight I not only predicted that Johnny would bring the big Bostonian down to his size, but I pointed out that the ring never had had a champion from the middle west. Well, that's where Risko hails from and he may be worth watching.

Jing Johnson Expects to Pitch for Athletics

That Russell (Jing) Johnson expects to be with the Philadelphia Athletics again this year, although he has not definitely announced that he has received a contract from the big league club, became evident when in a letter to the board of athletic control he intimated that he would not be available to coach the Lehigh baseball team next spring.

Johnson coached baseball at Lehigh for two seasons. He started on a one-year agreement and then was given a three-year contract. He served one year of the latter and it is believed that there will be no difficulties experienced if he seeks release. It is probable that the new football coach to be appointed will also be the coach of baseball.

Hurler Jack Ogden Goes to St. Louis in a Trade

Trade of Jack Ogden, veteran pitching star of the Baltimore Orioles, for two St. Louis Browns players and a cash consideration was announced by Jack Dunn, Oriole president and manager.

Catcher Dixon and Pitcher Bolen went to the Orioles from the American league club in exchange, but the amount of cash involved in the deal was not made known.

In eight years with the Orioles, Ogden has won 191 games and lost 89, besides earning a reputation as a fielding pitcher and valued aide to the manager in suggesting strategic moves during games when he was not on the mound.

Cause and Effect

Many a woman can keep her nose in the air because her husband is at the grindstone.—Boston Transcript.

"Buddy" Rogers Was a Trombone Player

From a trombone player to a leading man in something under two years is an unusual record, but that's what happened to Charles Rogers, who plays opposite Mary Pickford in the star's new comedy-romance, "My Best Girl." Young Rogers, the son of a newspaper publisher in a Kansas town, was leading his own orchestra over the Chautauqua circuit when he was selected as one of the successful candidates for Paramount's school for actors.

Collegiate Umpire Will Take Hank O'Day's Place

The Boston Transcript says that Albert "Dolly" Stark, freshman basketball coach at Dartmouth and a leading collegiate baseball official in the East for the last five years, will be named as National league umpire.

Stark, who has just turned twenty-seven, will be one of the youngest umpires in either major league and his appointment by President John A. Heydier of the National league will follow on the retirement of the veteran, Henry "Hank" O'Day, the paper says. O'Day is retiring from active duty to assist in an advisory and scouting capacity.

Stark last year umpired more than 50 college games, went South last spring with the Philadelphia Nationals and later appeared in the Eastern league. He is known as a "Beau Brummel" among umpires.

Women Don't Fear Ice

Copenhagen, Denmark, has its organization of young lady vikings, who laugh at the idea that there is anything to fear in a daily dip in the ocean, no matter how low the mercury drops in the tube. In a competition, with swimming and games in ice-filled water, for the benefit of a fund for poor children, the young woman in the picture, Miss Mabel Christiansen, won all the prizes.

Freak Bet Is Recorded at Tijuana Race Track

A freak of race-horse betting was chalked up on the board at the Tijuana Jockey club track after the first race when the odds on Bay Lad, the winner, were posted.

Bay Lad paid $156 for $2 straight, $2.60 place and $2.20 show. The place and show prices are unusually small. It was a baby race for two-year-old maidens and Bay Lad beat eight other horses, running three furlongs in .35 flat, within one-fifth second of the track record for the distance.

99-Year Grid Contract Is Signed in Florida

The longest term football contract in existence has been signed at Gainesville, Fla., the athletic committees of two national collegiate fraternities at the University of Florida—Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Theta—entering into agreement to play an annual football game for the next 99 years.

The unique contract, calling for contests through the year 2027 A. D., specified that the annual games be played the second Saturday following the close of the regular varsity football season at Florida.

Dr. C. B. Spith and Grace E. Fry-singer, Washington, D. C., of the United States Department of Agriculture, were the principal speakers.

LIONS TO BANQUET CAGERS TONIGHT

Coach Kasch and B. H. S. Team to be Guests of Honor at Club Meet

LAUD TEAM'S ABILITY

Dan's Dairy Gives Radio Returns on the Lions and Rotary Game

Coach Kasch and his trojans are to be honored by the Lions Club for their remarkable basketball season tonight at a banquet and entertainment.

Dan's Dairy, official organ of the Brainerd, Minnesota Lions Club has the following to say in this regard: "Tonight we are given the pleasant opportunity of honoring Coach Warren Kasch and his squad of high jumping basketball athletes who have made an enviable record for themselves. They came within five points of going to Minneapolis and wrecked the nerves and vocal organs of 5,000 Brainerdites. If Appleton is still in the race next season and expect to stop Kasch's aggregation they had better equip themselves with a machine gun."

The supplement has the following to say on the interesting cage game between the Lions and the Rotarians last week which resulted in the score of 15-15:

"The radio returns on the Lions and Rotary basketball game held at the high school last Wednesday evening was very unsatisfactory. Static, resembling very much the ripping of shirt and undersized overalls, prevented the announcer from getting his stuff across."

Officials reports of the game bear out the contention that the last five points for the Rotarians, tying the score, were made while carrying the ball, riding on the back of some Lion, and the use of a step ladder to reach the basket. Cub Carl has contested the game and the supremacy of the Lions will be demonstrated at marbles when the snow goes off."

CAPACITY HOUSE GREET CLASS PLAY

B. H. S. Seniors Present "The Boomerang" in Highly Commendable Manner

AUDIENCE EXPRESS PLEASURE

Honors for Acting Taken by Four Main Characters; Orchestra Praised

Last night the seniors presented to a capacity house their class play, "The Boomerang." They had for background two scenes in a doctor's office and one in a wealthy home, both made possible through the generosity of the Patek Furniture company who loaned their very best furniture, and to Drs. Heise and Carlson, who kindly gave of their office furnishings and properties necessary for the medical attention required for the patients. The second act required pretty costumes for the girls and tuxedos for the men. The girls are indebted to the O'Brien Mercantile company for most of their very pretty dresses, to the Penney Store for three evening gowns, and to Mrs. Kvacher for hats. The audience was one of these appreciative ones that get every inflection and movement, and was aware after the first few minutes that the cast were so letter perfect that they could indulge their desire to chuckle or laugh without in any way embarrassing the players.

The honors for acting went to the four main characters. Donald McNamara and Milford Downie as Dr. Sumner and Budd Woodbridge gave excellent character portrayals of the contrasting types, the calm and efficient physician and the nervous and harassed patient. The details of their lines and actions were so well done that they seemed the characters they were representing rather than someone reciting lines. Especially effective were the shift of mood and action of the doctor in the third act, and Budd's rapid change from despair to ecstasy.

The parts of Virginia Xelva and Grace Tyler as played by Elsie Swanson and Kathleen Early were taken with an ease and assurance that gave one the impression that here were two girls at sword's points. Kathleen with her hauteur towards her rival, and Elsie with her full appreciation of the doctor's philosophy and her ability to ask it were contrasted. Kathleen acted well her part as an angry maiden scorned; and Elsie managed a delightful foreign accent that gave her the appearance of having recently come from abroad.

Lots Untereker gave an excellent portrayal of an anxious mother fluttering and possessive, and looked the part. Joe Greener as the assured and confident Preston DeWitt gave the impression that here was a person of great importance. Billy Johnstone portrayed the valet, Emile, in the traditional excitable French manner and provoked many laughs. Dale Sanders gave the part of the butler, Hartley, that touch of dignity and efficiency that is always asked of that superservant. Hazel Cochran and Ethel Burns acted the parts of prettily clad girls in effective manner. The part of Mr. Stone, the final touch of the play, was taken by Wini Barnes, whose deep resonant voice added just the right note in the office.

An effective and social touch was added by the group of guests in evening attire who gave the festive note required for the final touch in the cure of Budd Woodbridge. The parts were taken by Evelyn Dechaine, Henry Hanson, Irene Molstad, Vincent Kampmann, Henry Viken, Harold Flaata, Martha Remmels and Levi Folsom. The orchestra, under the capable direction of Miss Rickard, quite outdid themselves in their playing, both before the curtain and between acts, and no praise can be too great for complimenting them on their work.

To all of those people who so generously helped by loaning their clothes and all the other things necessary for a successful performance the class extend their hearty appreciation.

MARKET ON SHEEP SECONDARY ONE

Watford, N. D., March 14.—(UP)—The market on sheep was secondary in consideration among ranchers in western North Dakota today.

Foremost in their thoughts was how "Old Jess" Wickum was getting along at Watford City, where he is confined in a hospital following a paralytic stroke. Jess, who "allowed" he had cooked for every worth while rancher in the state during the 66 years he spent in North Dakota, is one of the picturesque figures, and a sage of repute.

Wickum, a native of Ohio, came to North Dakota when he was 11 years old. He never married.

CHAIRMEN MEET AT STATE CONFERENCE

Mrs. Edward Nelson Represents
Crow Wing County at Demonstration Groups

TO REPORT TO CLUBS

Stress Home Demonstration Work, Publicity, and Changes in Club Routine

Home demonstration work, publicity and fundamental changes in the routine of club work were featured in discussions at a state conference of home chairmen and home demonstration leaders, March 8, 9, and 10 at University Farm which was attended by Mrs. Edward Nelson, county home chairman representing Crow Wing county.

Dr. C. B. Spith and Grace E. Fryinger, Washington, D. C., of the United States Department of Agriculture, were the principal speakers. Over 300 representatives in the state were in attendance. A banquet was one of the interesting items on the three day program.

Reports on the conference are expected to be made by Mrs. Nelson at various club meetings soon.

LAUD TEAM'S ABILITY

Dan's Dairy Gives Radio Returns on the Lions and Rotary Game

Coach Kasch and his trojans are to be honored by the Lions Club for their remarkable basketball season tonight at a banquet and entertainment.

Dan's Dairy, official organ of the Brainerd, Minnesota Lions Club has the following to say in this regard: "Tonight we are given the pleasant opportunity of honoring Coach Warren Kasch and his squad of high jumping basketball athletes who have made an enviable record for themselves. They came within five points of going to Minneapolis and wrecked the nerves and vocal organs of 5,000 Brainerdites. If Appleton is still in the race next season and expect to stop Kasch's aggregation they had better equip themselves with a machine gun."

The supplement has the following to say on the interesting cage game between the Lions and the Rotarians last week which resulted in the score of 15-15:

"The radio returns on the Lions and Rotary basketball game held at the high school last Wednesday evening was very unsatisfactory. Static, resembling very much the ripping of shirt and undersized overalls, prevented the announcer from getting his stuff across.

Officials reports of the game bear out the contention that the last five points for the Rotarians, tying the score, were made while carrying the ball, riding on the back of some Lion, and the use of a step ladder to reach the basket. Cub Carl has contested the game and the supremacy of the Lions will be demonstrated at marbles when the snow goes off."

CAPACITY HOUSE GREET'S CLASS PLAY

B. H. S. Seniors Present "The Boomerang" in Highly Commendable Manner

AUDIENCE EXPRESS PLEASURE

Honors for Acting Taken by Four
Main Characters; Orchestra Praised

Last night the seniors presented to a capacity house their class play, "The Boomerang." They had for background two scenes in a doctor's office and one in a wealthy home, both made possible through the generosity of the Patek Furniture company who loaned their very best furniture, and to Drs. Beise and Carlson, who kindly gave of their office furnishings and properties necessary for the medical attention required for the patients. The second act required pretty costumes for the girls and tuxedos for the men. The girls are indebted to the O'Brien Mercantile company for most of their very pretty dresses, to the Penney Store for three evening gowns, and to Mrs. Kracher for hats.

The audience was one of these appreciative ones that get every inflection and movement, and was aware after the first few minutes that the cast were so letter perfect that they could indulge their desire to chuckle or laugh without in any way embarrassing the players.

The honors for acting went to the four main characters. Donald McNamara and Milford Downie as Dr. Sumner and Budd Woodbridge gave excellent character portrayals, of the contrasting types, the calm and efficient physician and the nervous and harassed patient. The details of their lines and actions were so well done that they seemed the characters they were representing rather than someone reciting lines. Especially effective were the shift of mood and action of the doctor in the third act, and Budd's rapid change from despair to ecstasy.

The parts of Virginia Xelva and Grace Tyler as played by Elsie Swanson and Kathleen Early were taken with an ease and assurance that gave one the impression that here were two girls at sword's points. Kathleen with her hauteur towards her rival, and Elsie with her full appreciation of the doctor's philosophy and her ability to ask it were contrasted. Kathleen acted well her part as an angry maiden scorned; and Elsie managed a delightful foreign accent that gave her the appearance of having recently come from abroad.

Lois Untereker gave an excellent portrayal of an anxious mother flustering and possessive, and looked the part. Joe Greener as the assured and confident Preston DeWitt gave the impression that here was a person of great importance. Billy Johnstone portrayed the valet, Emile, in the traditional excitable French manner and provoked many laughs. Dale Sanders gave the part of the butler, Hartley, that touch of dignity and efficiency that is always asked of that super-servant. Hazel Coonan and Ethel Burns acted the parts of prettily clad girls in effective manner. The part of Mr. Stone, the final touch of the play, was taken by Winel Barnes.

whose deep resonant voice added just the right note in the office.

An effective and social touch was added by the group of guests in evening attire who gave the festive note required for the final touch in the cure of Budd Woodbridge. The parts were taken by Evelyn Dechaine, Henry Hanson, Irene Molstad, Vincent Kampmann, Henry Viken, Harold Flaata, Martha Remmels and Levi Folsom.

The orchestra, under the capable direction of Miss Rickard, quite outdid themselves in their playing, both before the curtain and between acts, and no praise can be too great for complimenting them on their work.

To all of those people who so generously helped by loaning their clothes and all the other things necessary for a successful performance the class extend their hearty appreciation.

MARKET ON SHEEP SECONDARY ONE

Watford, N. D., March 14.—(UP)—The market on sheep was secondary in consideration among ranchers in western North Dakota today.

Foremost in their thoughts was how "Old Jess" Wickum was getting along at Watford City, where he is confined in a hospital following a paralytic stroke. Jess, who "allowed" he had cooked for every worth while rancher in the state during the 66 years he spent in North Dakota, is one of the picturesque figures, and a sage of repute.

Wickum, a native of Ohio, came to North Dakota when he was 11 years old. He never married.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picture.

SYNOPSIS
The valuable ancestral Vasquez ranch is sought by Buckwell, a Frisco politician. His lawyer's nephew, Terry, loves Dolores Vasquez and exposes Buckwell's perjury. Buckwell attempts wrecking their love; is also responsible for Vasquez's death. Dolores and Terry escape Buckwell as Chinaman. He escapes them and threatens Terry's life unless Dolores clears his name. She saves Terry, then refutes the lie. Buckwell flees into the underworld and takes Dolores. In an infamous den he tells her to wealthy Chinaman. The earthquake and fire wreck the den. Dolores saved from her owner but imprisoned in debris unconscious. Terry searches frantically for his loved one.

CHAPTER XXI—Continued
Picking his way carefully across the threshold he stumbled over a body that lay just inside the doorway. He paused and looked down. "Dolores!—Thank God I have found you!" His cry of joy quickly changed to grief as he knelt by the silent figure of his loved one. "Dolores! Speak to me, dear. It is Terry." He bent over and kissed her tenderly. She stirred uneasily. The movement, slight as it was, galvanized Terry into instant action and lifting her gently in his arms, he carried her out of the vault toward that ray of sunshine that still flickered through from the upper-world.

"Have you ever been sorry that the Vasquez name is no more?"

Fallen debris, Terry called loudly for help. His shout was answered almost immediately by the soldiers who were advancing toward him. With his precious burden held tightly in his arms he staggered forward to meet them. He had found Dolores and she was alive! Nothing else mattered, not even the hazards of reaching the upper world.

CHAPTER XXII Today.

The ashes of disaster have blown away. The Barbary Coast, Old Chinatown and that mile of hell, the Cocktail Route, are no more. A new and glorious city arose, as if by magic, from the still smoking ruins—a city of homes and of prosperity—the bustling, thriving San Francisco of today.

Seven months after the city had ceased to smolder, almost to the very day, the worthy citizens of San Francisco literally girded their loins to purge the city in dead earnest. They had long been familiar with the graft that was rampant in municipal politics and the city's administration had been the subject of much public denunciation.

On the fifteenth day of November, 1906 the District Attorney's office held the Mayor of San Francisco and one of his political bosses under indictment for extortion. The same day President Roosevelt and the Federal Government announced to the press that they would immediately prosecute certain San Francisco officials for appropriating relief funds. San Francisco's house cleaning had begun in earnest.

The little town of Searchlight, Nevada had contributed the sum of $1085.00 for the relief of the destitute sufferers in the stricken city. This amount in cash had been turned over to Wells Fargo express for delivery. The package was addressed to the Mayor of San Francisco in persona with the request that it be delivered to the relief committee. The express company secured the Mayor's signed receipt for the money. But for some strange reason the Relief Committee never received a penny of it. "Ghoulish Graft" the papers dubbed it.

About this time the worthy Mayor felt that the climate of Europe would be much better for his constitution and booked a costly suite on the Cunard liner "Carouna," stopping at the Waldorf in New York on the way, where he lived luxuriously.

It was but a short time after this that His Honor the Mayor was indicted. The Grand Jury returned five counts against him, among which was one from the Poodle Dog that charged His Honor with demanding money from the proprietor, one Tony Banco. Bail was fixed at $50,000.00 or $10,000.00 for each count.

Buckwell was dead and beyond the reach of man made laws. At Higher Court had passed judgment on his case and the verdict had been written. But his followers had been well taught and the real truth of his machinations was held up to the light of publicity for all to see. Buckwell had been the sinister power behind San Francisco's graft. Even the Mayor had been his willing tool. Buckwell had found him when he was the leader of an orchestra in a San Francisco theatre and he had been literally swept into office at the head of the Labor ticket by the sheer weight of Buckwell's influence.

While Buckwell had ruled San Francisco by proxy, he had ruled it to his profit and to the profit of those who played the game with him. The indictment of his followers spelt the beginning of the end of corruption. It was a disappointing twist of Fate to the reformers that he could not have lived to witness the demolition of the elaborate system of graft that he had labored so hard to build up.

At the old Vasquez rancho overlooking the new San Francisco that was rising from below it, Dolores was making a slow but steady battle back to health. The exhausting strain of her series of terrible experiences had shattered her nerves. Terry's daily presence did much to reawaken her to an interest in what was going on. Also the old peon's faithful attendance upon her left nothing to be desired. He was her devoted slave.

Buckwell's name was never mentioned. The occasional visits of Brandon were the only reminder of the dreadful past. But Brandon too had seen the light. His skilled legal mind had been able to conceal any connection of himself with the late boss of Old San Francisco, and his keen brain had become aligned with those who were struggling to remove all traces of the former condition. Brandon's services in connection with the Vasquez Rancho had been invaluable and it was largely through his efforts that Dolores still retained possession of her ancestral acres.

The period of Dolores's recuperation was one of struggling impatience for Terry. He loved her passionately, yet with a tender devotion that brought the tears to her eyes. Their marriage was only a question of time, yet his ardent love was hard to keep in check during this enforced interval. At night when he wheeled her chair in from the rose garden, to the big living-room, his evening ritual was, "Dolores, dear, when can we be married?"

And as she gave him the tenderest of all good-night kisses, her response came soft and low, "It won't be very long now, Terry."

Years have passed. No trace of the Old San Francisco remains. From out the piles of brick and mortar have arisen a canyon of great office buildings. The finest of police departments patrol the well paved streets and the political administration of this New San Francisco is above reproach.

Dolores and Terry are married. Under the new master's energetic direction the broad Vasquez heritage has become a humming hive of industry. Fields are plowed and vine yards are in a wonderful state of fruition.

As Dolores and Terry stand, with arms around each other, on the hillside overlooking the city Terry steals a sly look at her and says mischievously, "Have you ever been sorry that the Vasquez name is no more—since you exchanged it for O'Shaughnessy?"

Dolores smiles up at him gently as she shakes her head, saying, "No, Terry! But see, the Vasquez blood flows on—perhaps some day to accomplish even greater deeds than in the past."

He follows the direction of her upraised arm and their admiring gaze rests upon the old peon. He is harnessed to a small wagon with a tiny piece of rope. A heavenly smile of satisfaction is on his face. Seated in the wagon is a husky four year old youngster. On his head is perched a paper soldier's cap and in both chubby hands, at most more than he can manage, is raised aloft the great sword of the Vasquez.

week ordered Mrs. Dickinson's body exhumed for examination, immediately ordered all relatives and witnesses to the widow's death, January 4, to be present at an inquest this afternoon.

Mrs. Dickinson died two months ago, leaving the bulk of a $100,000 estate to two nieces. Dispute over the woman's will led to an investigation based on charges Mrs. Dickinson's death was hastened by an overdose of drugs.
